Sunday Smile

I dreamed that I died and when I arrived at the gates, a Taxi driver was just ahead of me. St. Peter read through our lives and then let us both in. He showed the taxi driver his room. It was a magnificent suite with a king-size bed, giant screen TV, fully stocked bar, the works. After seeing the taxi driver's room, I was anxious to see my own. It turned out to be a tiny room with a cot and a fifty watt light bulb dangling from the ceiling. Naturally I asked St. Peter for an explanation. "Look," he said, "when you gave homilies people fell asleep. But when people rode in his taxi, they prayed."
